

Context: Vocabulary

Chapter 1: Finding Your Place – The Individual in Society

| Lead-in                               |                                    |                                                    |                                                                                                                      |
|---------------------------------------|------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| task 1b                               | relevant                    | wichtig; relevant                                  | John Lennon's thoughts are still relevant nowadays.                                                           |
| chapter map                           | fitting in                  | dazugehören                                        | Julia found fitting in with her new classmates hard.                                                          |
| chapter map                           | personal relations          | persönliche Beziehungen                            | The personal relations between the teachers and students are quite positive.                                         |
| chapter map                           | individuality               | Individualität; Einzigartigkeit                    | He expresses his individuality through his clothes.                                                           |
| Words in Context: Finding my own path |                                    |                                                    |                                                                                                                      |
| I. 3                                  | take sb./sth. for granted   | jdn./etw. als selbstverständlich ansehen           | Rather than showing appreciation for the fact that I do lots of overtime, my boss just takes it for granted . |
| I. 5                                  | develop your character      | seinen Charakter / seine Persönlichkeit entwickeln | Trying new things that force you to leave your comfort zone can help to develop your character .              |
| I. 9                                  | sense of self               | Selbstempfinden; Selbstwahrnehmung                 | People with a strong sense of self are less likely to be influenced by social media.                          |
| I. 11                                 | find one's place in society | seinen Platz in der Gesellschaft finden            | Her parents moved to the 'Mother Country' from the Caribbean but struggled to find their place in society .   |
| I. 13                                 | develop a sense of identity | ein Identitätsbewusstsein entwickeln               | The programme is intended to help young people use goals and values to develop a healthy sense of identity .  |
| I. 14                                 | conform to social norms     | sich an gesellschaftliche Normen anpassen          | Failing to conform to social norms could be a sign of rebellion, but also of certain personality disorders.   |
| I. 15                                 | stand out from the crowd    | sich von der Masse abheben                         | Improve your chances of success at interviews by emphasizing what makes you stand out from the crowd .        |
| I. 19                                 | shape your own destiny      | sein Schicksal selbst bestimmen                    | She decided to shape her own destiny rather than just wait for things to happen.                              |
| I. 20                                 | equality of opportunity     | Chancengleichheit                                  | Legislation to ensure equality of opportunity for people from ethnic minorities has been enacted.             |
| I. 21                                 | address social inequalities | soziale Ungleichheiten in Angriff nehmen           | The government set up the program to monitor and address social inequalities .                                |

Context: Vocabulary

Chapter 1: Finding Your Place – The Individual in Society

|       |                                    |                                                                                         |                                                                                                           |
|-------|------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| I. 22 | fulfil your dream           | sich seinen Traum erfüllen                                                              | A life coach can offer advice that may help people to fulfil their dreams .                        |
| I. 24 | fit into mainstream society | in die Mehrheitsgesellschaft passen                                                     | He decided to go and live in a commune as he realized he didn't fit into mainstream society .      |
| I. 27 | adhere to binary roles      | sich an den binären Rollen festhalten                                                   | The use of the pronoun 'they' reflects the fact that many people do not adhere to binary roles .   |
| I. 28 | gender fluidity             | Geschlechterfluidität; Geschlechtsidentität, die sich zwischen den Geschlechtern bewegt | Many people are increasingly opting for gender fluidity rather than rigid gender roles.            |
| I. 30 | be spoilt for choice        | die Qual der Wahl haben                                                                 | We're spoilt for choice : there are several good films showing this week.                          |
| I. 33 | forge your own path         | den eigenen Weg gehen                                                                   | Everyone has different talents and tastes, which is why it's so important to forge your own path . |

Text 1: A beautiful portrait Oscar Wilde

|       |                           |                            |                                                                              |
|-------|---------------------------|----------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| I. 7  | bear a burden      | eine Last tragen           | Some women bear the burden of looking after their children alone.     |
| I. 15 | oppressive         | bedrückend, erdrückend     | The silence started to grow oppressive .                              |
| I. 21 | give rise to sth.  | etw. verursachen           | The president's speech gave rise to criticism from different corners. |
| I. 25 | seek to do sth.    | versuchen etw. zu tun      | He sought to convince her of his plan.                                |
| I. 39 | gain a reputation  | einen Ruf erlangen         | As an unknown actor, he found it hard to gain a reputation .          |
| I. 44 | be capable of sth. | zu etw. imstande sein      | It is untrue that men are not capable of multitasking.                |
| I. 55 | exaggeration       | Übertreibung               | He told the story plainly and without exaggeration .                  |
| I. 65 | not in the least   | nicht im Geringsten        | I'm not in the least interested.                                      |
| I. 72 | be spared sth.     | von etw. verschont bleiben | Luckily, the country was spared a catastrophe.                        |
| I. 73 | indifferent        | gleichgültig               | He was indifferent , while his sister was visibly shocked.            |

Text 2: Going to university

|         |                                     |                                         |                                                                        |
|---------|-------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| task 1  | apply to sb./sth.            | sich auf jdn. beziehen, für jdn. gelten | The law applies to everyone.                                    |
| task 2a | take sth. into consideration | etwas berücksichtigen                   | Take everything into consideration when you make your decision. |

Context: Vocabulary

Chapter 1: Finding Your Place – The Individual in Society

Text 3: Not being normal Sally Rooney

|       |                                            |                                          |                                                                           |
|-------|--------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| I. 2  | comply with sth.                    | etw. befolgen                            | All visitors must comply with the safety regulations.              |
| I. 2  | arbitrary rule                      | willkürliche Regel                       | It's not just an arbitrary rule , it helps keep us safe.           |
| I. 14 | fall under the jurisdiction of sth. | der Autorität von jmdm./etw. unterliegen | Foreign visitors also fall under the jurisdiction of our country.  |
| I. 17 | lose your temper                    | die Beherrschung verlieren               | Stay calm and try not to lose your temper .                        |
| I. 21 | be harsh on sb./sth.                | streng mit jmd./etw. sein                | The teacher was too harsh on the students.                  |
| I. 33 | act superior                        | überlegen tun                            | She thinks she can act superior because of her wealthy background. |
| I. 38 | matter-of-fact                      | nüchtern; neutral                        | He replied to the accusations matter-of-factly .                   |
| I. 40 | have access to sb./sth.             | Zugang zu jmdm./etw. haben               | Too many children still don't have access to basic education.      |
| I. 41 | feel confined                       | sich eingeengt fühlen                    | His hamster must feel so confined in that tiny cage!               |
| I. 42 | regardless of sth.                  | ungeachtet von etw.                      | Regardless of what you say, I won't believe you.                   |
| I. 47 | feel drained                        | sich erschöpft fühlen                    | After the exam, she felt terribly drained .                 |
| I. 59 | brag about sb./sth.                 | mit jmdm./etw. angeben                   | He's always bragging about his new car.                            |

Skills Lab: Women and power Mary Beard

|       |                             |                              |                                                                                        |
|-------|-----------------------------|------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| I. 4  | clear minority       | deutliche Minderheit         | Black women are still a clear minority in tech jobs.                            |
| I. 10 | cultural stereotype  | kulturelles Klischee         | It may be a cultural stereotype , but all my British friends actually love tea. |
| I. 13 | target sth.          | auf etw. abzielen            | Brands are targeting potential customers on social media.                       |
| I. 14 | exclude sb./sth.     | jmdn./etw. ausschließen      | Some scenes had to be excluded because they were too graphic.                   |
| I. 19 | convenient           | praktisch                    | In many cities, bikes are more convenient than cars.                            |
| I. 26 | effective            | wirksam                      | The medicine was effective , I feel much better.                                |
| I. 29 | decode sth.          | etw. entschlüsseln           | Journalists tried to decode the real meaning of the minister's words.           |
| I. 31 | be perceived as sth. | als etw. wahrgenommen werden | Cats are often perceived as more independent than dogs.                         |

Context: Vocabulary

Chapter 1: Finding Your Place – The Individual in Society

|       |                            |                         |                                                                            |
|-------|----------------------------|-------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| I. 37 | access to power     | Zugang zur Macht        | Ethnic minorities don't have equal access to power in this country. |
| I. 38 | underline sth.      | etw. betonen            | The protests underline the importance of this topic to the people.  |
| I. 40 | be entitled to sth. | auf etw. Anspruch haben | As a guest, you are entitled to free tea or coffee.                 |

Text 4: We are in this together Vicky Bristow

|       |                              |                           |                                                                                    |
|-------|------------------------------|---------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| I. 5  | be likely to do sth.  | etw. wahrscheinlich tun   | Unfortunately, boys are still less likely to be adopted than girls.  |
| I. 5  | thrive                | blühen; gedeihen          | New businesses seem to thrive in this area.                                 |
| I. 11 | survival              | Überlebenschance          | This therapy can prolong patients' survival significantly.                  |
| I. 18 | diverse               | vielfältig                | London is one of the most culturally diverse cities in the world.           |
| I. 21 | explore sth.          | etw. erkunden             | The author explored this topic in his latest novel.                         |
| I. 25 | domestic violence     | häusliche Gewalt          | Domestic violence is a growing problem in this community.                   |
| I. 26 | feel fed up with sth. | von etw. genug haben      | I feel fed up with his constant complaining!                                |
| I. 34 | for a start           | zunächst einmal           | I dislike him for a number of reasons; for a start , he's always rude.      |
| I. 40 | despair (n)           | Verzweiflung              | There was despair in the eyes of the people whose homes had been destroyed. |
| I. 43 | genuine compassion    | aufrichtiges Mitgefühl    | Is genuine compassion for others rare in the twenty-first century?          |
| I. 44 | value sb./sth.        | Jmdn./etw. wertschätzen   | I value your feedback on my essay.                                          |
| I. 52 | shelter sb. from sth. | jmdn. vor etw. beschützen | Trees sheltered him from the rain.                                          |
| I. 57 | declare sth.          | etw. verkünden            | The government has declared a state of emergency.                           |

Text 6: We can do something really cool to this world Marina Keegan

|      |                                   |                                   |                                                                                                  |
|------|-----------------------------------|-----------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| I. 2 | enter the finance industry | in die Finanzindustrie einsteigen | Fewer women than men are entering the finance industry .                                  |
| I. 7 | according to sb./sth.      | laut jmdm./etw.                   | According to my parents, I was a very quiet baby.                                         |
| I. 9 | disparate                  | grundverschieden                  | Our class is quite disparate , we have students of all abilities, faiths and ethnicities. |

Context: Vocabulary

Chapter 1: Finding Your Place – The Individual in Society

|       |                                 |                                     |                                                                                                         |
|-------|---------------------------------|-------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| I. 9  | remarkable               | bemerkenswert                       | His boss praised him for his remarkable achievements.                                            |
| I. 11 | significant              | beträchtlich                        | There has been a significant increase in crime in our neighbourhood.                             |
| I. 11 | postgraduate plans       | Pläne für die Zeit nach dem Studium | The university offers events to help students decide their postgraduate plans .                  |
| I. 13 | inherently evil          | von Natur aus böse                  | Are all dictators inherently evil ?                                                              |
| I. 15 | intrinsic                | inhärent; intrinsisch               | They fail to see the intrinsic value of education, all they care about are career opportunities. |
| I. 19 | line of work             | Beruf                               | In my line of work , good communications skills are essential.                                   |
| I. 20 | engage in sth.           | sich mit etw. beschäftigen          | We should all actively engage in shaping the world we live in.                                   |
| I. 21 | be passionate about sth. | eine Leidenschaft für etw. haben    | He is passionate about food.                                                                     |
| I. 25 | boil down to sth.        | auf etw. hinauslaufen               | A lot of the town's problems boil down to a lack of money.                                       |
| I. 29 | pay off a loan           | einen Kredit abbezahlen             | She paid off her student loan after ten years.                                            |
| I. 35 | genuine                  | aufrichtig                          | Are you genuinely interested or are you just pretending?                                         |
| I. 45 | be privileged            | privilegiert sein                   | White people are often still more privileged .                                            |

Text 7: The privilege backpack

|              |                                     |                                             |                                                                                                 |
|--------------|-------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| text         | build on the work of sb.     | an das Werk / die Arbeit von jdm. anknüpfen | This study builds on the work of previous scientists.                                    |
| text         | interlock                    | ineinandergreifen                           | The structure consists of many interlocking pieces.                                      |
| illustration | safety net                   | Sicherheitsnetz                             | Some people end up homeless because they fall through the safety nets of society.        |
| illustration | buffer against sth.          | vor etw. schützen, etw. abpuffern           | Hobbies play an important role in buffering against stress.                              |
| checklist    | assume sth. (about sb./sth.) | etw. über jmdn./etw. annehmen               | They assumed she was muslim, as well as other things about her, because she wore a veil. |

Text 8: A prank Dashka Slater

|       |                              |                       |                                                                  |
|-------|------------------------------|-----------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------|
| I. 6  | exhaustion            | Erschöpfung           | After the marathon, she was overwhelmed with exhaustion . |
| I. 11 | be equipped with sth. | mit etw. ausgestattet | All rooms are equipped with air conditioning.             |
| I. 32 | prank (n)             | Streich               | The call was just a silly prank .                         |
| I. 34 | startled              | erschrocken           | He jumped back like a startled rabbit.                    |

Context: Vocabulary

Chapter 1: Finding Your Place – The Individual in Society

|       |                           |                   |                                                                      |
|-------|---------------------------|-------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------|
| I. 55 | urge (v)           | drängen           | 'Now go and talk to her,' my friend urged .                   |
| I. 66 | surveillance video | Überwachungsvideo | The surveillance video showed the burglars entering the home. |
| I. 69 | terrified          | verängstigt       | She was terrified when she spotted the spider on her leg.     |

Text 9: My journey into the world of men's beauty

|        |                                                |                                          |                                                                                          |
|--------|------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| task 2 | persuade sb. to do sth.                 | jdn. überreden etw. zu tun               | The convenience of E-bikes will persuade more people to leave their cars at home. |
| task 2 | impress sb.                             | jdn. beeindrucken                        | The footballer impressed the crowd with her ball skills.                          |
| task 2 | refuse to do sth.                       | sich weigern etw. zu tun                 | Although they were losing, the team refused to give up.                           |
| task 2 | offer an opportunity for sb. to do sth. | jdm. eine Gelegenheit bieten etw. zu tun | Social media offers an opportunity for people to connect.                         |
| task 2 | promote sth.                            | für etw. werben                          | Brands promote their products on social media.                                    |

Text 10: Sonnet 130 William Shakespeare

|        |                            |                          |                                                                      |
|--------|----------------------------|--------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------|
| task 1 | view sb./sth. as    | jdn./etw. betrachten als | The people view their queen as dutiful and noble.             |
| task 2 | conventional beauty | klassische Schönheit     | Each culture has different standards of conventional beauty . |

Text 11: Scars to your beautiful Alessia Cara

|       |                       |                       |                                                                            |
|-------|-----------------------|-----------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| I. 2  | go unnoticed   | unbemerkt bleiben     | It didn't go unnoticed that he hadn't done his homework.            |
| I. 2  | know no limits | keine Grenzen kennen  | Jake wants to be president one day – his ambition knows no limits . |
| I. 3  | crave sth.     | sich nach etw. sehnen | After a hard day, she craved a hug.                                 |
| I. 8  | cover sth. up  | etw. verdecken        | She tried to cover up her emotions in vain.                         |
| I. 31 | surface (n)    | Oberfläche            | He seemed calm, but, under the surface , his rage boiled.           |

Text 12: Art in Context: 'We can do it'

|        |                                 |                             |                                                                                    |
|--------|---------------------------------|-----------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| task 5 | encourage sb. to do sth. | jdn. ermutigen, etw. zu tun | His friends were encouraging him to apply for the job.                      |
| task 5 | become involved in sth.  | sich an etw. beteiligen     | Big companies encourage their employees to become involved in charity work. |